Westmont Resident Presents Paper at Conference

Betsy M. Suppes, of Westmont, presented a paper at the Society of Mining Engineers conference in Phoenix.

The title of her talk was “Appraisals: Norming the Data for Comparable Sales of Unconventional Resources.”

Suppes is credentialed as a certified minerals appraiser with the International Institute of Minerals Appraisers.

Suppes has been the principal of Forgedale Consulting Inc., an oil and gas consulting firm, since 2005.

She received a bachelor’s degree from Dickinson College and a master’s of science and master’s of business administration degrees from Tulane University.

She is a certified petroleum geologist with the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and a former vice president and treasurer of the New Orleans Geological Society.
